

SHANNON HOON'S LAST SONG TO BE RELEASED

● BLIND MELON are set to release the last track they recorded with singer Shannon Hoon in the US next Spring. The song, an as-yet-unconfirmed cover, will appear on a compilation album entitled 'Schoolhouse Rock', which will be released through Atlantic Records. 'Schoolhouse Rock' was an old US TV series, and the album will feature various bands performing songs from the show. Aside from Blind Melon, Primus, Mudhoney, Beck and Ween will also contribute.

Shannon Hoon tragically died of a drug overdose on October 21, 1995. The band, whose self-titled debut album has now sold more than four million copies in the US, have yet to release any statement about their future plans.

SHANNON HOON'S LAST SONG TO BE RELEASED

BLIND MELON are set to release the last track they recorded with Singer Shannon Hoon in the US next Spring. The song, an as-yet-unconfirmed cover, will appear on a compilation album entitled 'Schoolhouse Rock', which will be released through Atlantic Records. 'Schoolhouse Rock' was an old US TV series, and the album will feature various bands performing songs from the show. Aside from Blind Melon, Primus, Mudhoney, Beck and Ween will also contribute.

Shannon Hoon tragically died of a drug overdose on October 21, 1995. The band, whose self-titled debut album has now sold more than four million copies in the US, have yet to release any statement about their future plans.